DIETARY & ALLERGENS

Dietary and allergen requirements can be an important part of placing a catering order, particularly where health, cultural or religious needs are involved. Parc Deli operates a deli-style kitchen where all allergens are present. While we take care to minimise the risk of cross-contamination, we are unable to guarantee that any item is 100% free from a specific allergen.

To ensure clarity and safety, the responsibility for selecting suitable menu items rests with the person placing the order. We are unable to make dietary, allergen or ingredient choices on behalf of customers.

Allergen information is provided with buffet deliveries to support informed decision-making. Where required, we can prepare individual meals for guests with specific dietary requirements, which are packaged separately and clearly labelled.

If a guest has a severe food allergy, we ask that you contact us prior to placing your order so we can discuss this with you directly.
